RAIN OR SHINE

Dear Montgomery Farmers' Market Patrons:

Come early!

That old saying about the early bird getting the worm applies to the Montgomery Farmers' Market, too! New produce is showing up every week now, but in smaller quantities for the first few weeks. There are only so many homegrown strawberries in the beginning of the season. Same will likely be true for zucchini, tomatoes, sweet corn, and more!

The secret to taking home what's new and exciting each week is arriving as early as you can! In the hotter months, you will also be more comfortable in the earlier hours. So come early and leave happy!

Thanks to everyone who participated in our facebook poll! We counted the number of patrons who visited the Market on May 24th and several fans took guesses at how many there were. Abigail Cress Brown was the closest guesser with her guess of 1,000--we counted 992. Congratulations!

Stuart, Marian, Christen, Brian, Martin, Kim, Armin,

P.S. Do you facebook? Find us and like us for even more updates and reminders on what's happening at the market!

NOTE WORTHY EVENTS THIS WEEK:

CHILDREN'S ACTIVITY:
