

Greetings customers, volunteers and vendors!

We are REQUIRING MASKS per the CDC's newest guidance which states that both vaccinated and unvaccinated people must wear a mask when attending a crowded, outdoor event. As soon as we can relax this rule we will happily do so. But for now... masks up! Thank you for your cooperation and patience in keeping our vendors safe.

What's in season for May 15th?

Rhubarb, asparagus, spring greens, salad mix, spinach, kale, swiss chard, grape tomatoes, radishes, beets, green onions, snap peas, romaine lettuce, leeks, small sweet peppers, hanging baskets and potted flowers, lettuce, dehydrated ramps, veggie and herb plants, living head lettuce, microgreens, fresh herbs, cut baby greens, edible flowers, oyster mushrooms, and the freshest popping corn.

Gardeners... we have lots of floral, veggie and herb plants!

Beautiful Flowers for your Garden

One of the joys of May at the Farmers' Market is how the cool weather nurtures lettuce, kale, asparagus and sugar snap peas ... and soon, broccoli and more. And for the gardeners among us, this is the week to stock up on plants for your garden. By even the most conservative estimate, the chance of frost is behind us and warm sunny weather is ahead. So, now is the time to grow your own.

In addition, while we welcome back some of our returning vendors we also have many new faces. Check the listing below to see what everyone is bringing. We will have a full house this Saturday and we're expecting sunny and warm weather.

We have brought back the "3 peas" game for kids and also live music. This week you can look forward to enjoying the tunes of Elia Burkhart. We hope to see you at the Market!
